HIV / AIDS

AIDS (Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome) is caused by HIV (Human Immunodeficiency Virus), a micro-organism which attacks cells of the immune system. The immune system is to protect the body from infections and diseases. The term "HIV Positive" is one used when a person has been tested and it has been established that antibodies of HIV are present.

AIDS is not a specific disease but a syndrome (a collection of diseases) brought about when the immune system is weakened so much it cannot combat diseases effectively.

HIV is transmitted in blood, semen, vaginal and cervical fluids. It can be passed from man to man, man to woman, woman to woman, woman to man and woman to foetus.

Hepatitis
This is a disease caused by a virus. There are several distinct infections which are grouped together and called "viral hepatitis", which means infection of the liver.

Hepatitis A
This is quite frequently found in schools and is spread by contaminated faeces and poor hygiene.

Hepatitis B
This is a viral infection, more serious than Hepatitis A, because a person can become a carrier. This virus is spread by body fluids e.g. saliva, semen and vaginal fluids and can be passed from one person to another.

Hepatitis C
This has been recently identified and is blood transfusion related.

Hepatitis D
This only affects people who have Hepatitis B.

Hepatitis E
This is not common in this country and is usually transmitted through water.
